HAPPY FAMILY OF OPERATIVES.

George Merritt's Employees Greet the Marriage of His Son with Rejoicing.

Yesterday morning George Merritt, on approaching his woolen-mill on West Washington street, was surprised to see floating from a flag-staff on the roof, a large and handsome silk flag bearing the stars and stripes. On inquiry, he was informed by the employees that the American banner was their own suggestion, and that it was in honor of the marriage of Worth Merritt, which had taken place the night before, the bride being Miss Jessie Fisher. Later in the day a number of the wives and daughters of the employees called at Mr. Merritt's residence, 172 North West street, and decorated the house for a reception. The decorations were as novel as they were beautiful, being made of carded wool of different shades, arranged in loops and graceful festoons about doors, windows and alcoves. At 7 o'clock last evening the employees began to arrive, and between ninety and one hundred called upon Mr. and Mrs. Merritt, and gave their hearty congratulations to the newly-married pair, as well as to Mr. and Mrs. George Merritt, who were for the time guests in their own house. The visitors were girls and boys employed in the mills, as well as older persons, the ages ranging from twelve to sixty years. They have been employed in the mill from a few months to twenty years. Conspicuously displayed in the parlor was a most exquisite piece of workmanship, an onyx-topped table, the gift of the employees to the bride. One peculiarity of these employees noticed by the reporter is that they seem to have a direct interest in the business of their employer, and have fallen into the pleasant fashion of calling it "our mill." The young couple will visit the mill to-day on invitation of the employees, and will be given a most cordial reception.

Convention of Prohibitionists. The Prohibitionists will hold their city convention in the Criminal Court room to-night, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of nominating a ticket for the coming election, if candidates can be secured. Captain Eli F. Ritter, C. W. Oaks and J. L. Parsons will contend for the mayoralty nomination, and Joseph W. Wells will probably have no opposition in his efforts to go on the ticket as a candidate for city clerk. Third-party nominees are not yet thought of.

Mr. Hawkins as a Director. Wellington Smith resigned as one of the directors of the New Broad Ripple Natural Gas Company. Edward Hawkins was elected as his successor.

Wisdom Learned from Experienced Teachers at Bethany and Camp Acton.

Pastoral Work as It Arose in the Church of the Disciples—Sermons by Mrs. Robinson and Bishop Joyce—Other Services.

BETHANY PARK.

The Work of the Pastors as Defined in the Scriptures. The young people at Bethany Park have been successful in breaking the monotony that necessarily arises from a long succession of addresses, no matter how good they may be. By every evening quite a number of boats, filled by gay young people, are out on the lake, and the songs indulged in give amusement and pleasure to the spectators along the banks. A happy thought struck a certain young man, last evening, that of having a party of Butler students alone for boating. He had little difficulty in selecting his company, and the patriotic songs and shouts of laughter from the party made everybody cheerful.

Yesterday was a very successful one, too, so far as the exercises were concerned. At 6:30 there was the usual early prayer-meeting. Of course, a good many who take advantage of time the more zealous spend in their devotions in catching a morning nap, do not attend these meetings, but a sufficiently large number are in attendance to make them very interesting. At 8 o'clock Professor McGarvey gave some valuable hints to the young preachers on the subject. "How to Prepare Sermons," was the idea brought out by him was that after having first determined the special purpose of the sermon, the preacher must, in constructing it, conform to that purpose, the prime object of which is to save men. The sole purpose of preaching, he said, is to cause some movement in the soul of the hearer. The object of the sermon is to bring about a change in the hearer's life. At 11 o'clock Rev. W. B. Treat delivered the usual Assembly lecture on the subject of the "Office of Pastor." His remarks were based on Jeremiah iii, 14-17. In that passage, he said, God appeals to backsliding Israel to repent, and the argument therefor is the figurative use of the word "contract," which, by the most ancient law, was indissoluble. By the perpetuity of the marriage relation Jehovah illustrated the unchangeableness of the covenant which he had assumed toward Abraham's children. He signified his intention to watch over them, saying he would give them pastors after his heart, who would feed them with knowledge and understanding. Pastors certainly were never given to the Jewish church. The few prophets after the return of Israel's children from the seventy years' captivity were but poorly understood. The teaching of the rabbis was never specially approved by Jehovah, and it was condemned by the prophets. During the long period of the Jewish history, political strife and not good times occupied the attention of the leaders. When Christ came the people were ignorant of the law and its interpretation, hence Israel's teachers, from Jeremiah to Christ, were not the promised pastors. History furnished the speaker said, no fulfillment of the prophecy until Christ's advent. Pastors, therefore, are a specific feature of Christ's government, the question is to know correctly what is their work and of what they are to feed the people with knowledge and understanding, and that marks them as instructors in God's law. The preacher is pre-eminently a teacher, and must do that work well, but he must also do much else as he can to further the cause of Christ. His great work is to preach the gospel. He will find many other duties devolving upon him, and it requires good judgment to know just how to properly meet them. The pioneers of the Disciples were correct in their estimate of the ministry's work, except that they failed to recognize God's provisions for a permanent pastorate, where such a thing was possible. Yet, in the natural order of things, the churches, although there were well-informed pastors in the various congregations, began to employ regular preachers. Some opposed it, but the satisfactory results of the innovation overrode such objections. The change came gradually, there being first a prominent elder who took the work in hand, but the elder is necessarily a ruler, and has a judicial office. He was, however, a pastor. Of the true pastor, the pulpit ministrations is the crowning glory. Although it is difficult to tell where the dividing line comes between the work of the elder and that of the pastor, there are some distinctions made between them in the Bible. Paul speaks of apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors and teachers, who are to feed the flock of God, which he has purchased with his own blood. The explanation of this classification seems to be that the overseers of the congregation, who must be apt to teach, "constitute the class of teachers here referred to and distinguished from the pastors. The apostles, prophets and inspired evangelists have been supported in their work by the laudable pastors and teachers who, without inspiration, have studied the word of the Lord. Never was there a people who opposed the pastor more acutely in name than the Disciples, yet he has always been present in fact; it was so even with all the pioneer churches. The evangelist, properly speaking, is one who travels with the word, his work being primarily before the church, while that of the pastor is within the church. The men who are to be pastors must be forcible and well informed. It is the fact that each fully-equipped congregation at the close of the apostolic age there was one man who was a representative light-bearer or teacher, and this man was not simply an elder or bishop, but a regular pastor.

The afternoon was devoted to hearing reports of the State missionary evangelist, Rev. J. P. Ewing. He gave as the general summary of his work, money paid to and raised by evangelists, $23,570; accessions under evangelistic labor in six months, 1,635; congregations organized, 19; Sunday-schools organized, 25; mission churches built and provided for, 10; districts needing evangelists, 14; districts organized, 16; districts unorganized, 12; organized six months, 4. In the evening President A. B. Benton delivered a lecture on the subject of "Home Missions." To-day will be devoted to a continuation of the work of the State Missionary Society. In the morning, at 9 o'clock, there will be a meeting of the friends of Butler University. The assembly lecture at 1 o'clock will be entitled, "The American Problem," by Rev. R. F. Richardson, of Michigan. At 8 p. m. Rev. D. R. Lucas will deliver an address, "Preaching the Gospel to the World," which will be the theme of the "To-morrow will be Tourists' day," when M. L. Stracks, State evangelist of Montana, will lecture on "Yellowstone Park," in the morning. President J. O. Jones, of Mills, will talk on "Life in the Sultan's Capital," in the afternoon.

CAMP ACTON.

Sermons by Mrs. Robinson and Bishop Joyce, and the Usual Daily Services.

The interest at Acton shows no evidences of decrease, and the announcement that Bishop Joyce would preach yesterday drew the largest crowd of the week thus far. The meetings are attracting great attention abroad, as letters and telegrams are being received every day from ministers of the Methodist Church and those conducting other camp-meetings. The usual prayer and testimony services of the early morning met with gratifying results, and after them, at 10 a. m., Mrs. L. O. Robinson preached in the Tabernacle to a large audience. The text chosen was from Second Kings, ii, 2: "And Elijah said unto Elisha, I pray thee, stay here, for the Lord hath sent me to Bethel." And Elisha said unto him, As the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they went down to Bethel. The text, the lady said, is the bond of covenant between Elijah and Elisha before Elisha ascended into the chariot of fire. It is a wonderful thing to take an oath and remain loyal to it. The soldiers present know that an oath of allegiance means. They found Elisha with twelve yoke of oxen, but he left everything to follow the prophet. So one must leave all inembrances and follow God. "Perhaps," said the lady, "there is no other such burden loading down the church to-day as the sin of Sabbath-breaking. God commands: 'Keep the Sabbath day holy.' Are you going to take the oath of allegiance and be loyal to God? From such as accept Him God will take away the reproach of sin." Special services of church membership, Mrs. Robinson enjoined upon her hearers the necessity of uniting with the church and becoming active workers in the service of God. If they would live up to their oath of allegiance. The consecration service that followed the sermon was led by Dr. Keen. It was a revival of the old-time Methodist devotionals, and a congregation seemed carried away with religious enthusiasm. Bishop Joyce preached at 2:30 p. m. and he crowded that assembly to hear him more than filled the tabernacle, as nearly every person on the grounds was present. There is general regret expressed that he will be unable to remain through to-morrow, as was originally expected. The congregation sang "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," and prayer was offered by the Rev. Dr. Creighton. The text chosen was from St. Luke v, 1-4. The Lord is educating men by the power of invisible things, the Bishop said, and laws and institutions are but channels to direct their thought. Man is incapacitated from doing God's will as He would have him do it. But He does the best He can with the kind of men He has. Once in a generation, perhaps, a single man is found who can do what God wants him to do. When he is found God puts him out ten or twelve miles from the center of the world, and allows the world to come up to him. Thus He found Huss, Luther, and every great reformer the world has seen. It is all God's invisible things that are being revealed for the Lord does not send men to preach the beliefs and opinions of men, but the truth as it is in Jesus Christ.

Some pastors get the notion they can do the best work in the best kind of surroundings. They must have the wealthiest congregation and the most magnificent church. But it is not so. It is, but what he is. Many ministers go through life scraping the stars, but do not have a revival in five years. The priest was in a rich synagog, while Christ took his preachers from fishermen's boats. But Christ in the boat touched hearts with God, and His truth is setting the world free. Some people the pastor said, object to doctrinal preaching. But men are to be taught, and not pleased. Christ, and Him crucified, must be preached as often as at a week, and naturally he is prone to error. But Christ has removed the old transgression and provided the atonement. Human nature is sick. But Christ comes with a balm. The whatever is wrong in men He will take it out. The pastor that truly preaches Christ will have no lack of revivals. Many men, however, are in a bad way. They have returned to a year's charge. They had failed to preach Christ and souls were left unsaved. D. W. Potter preached at night from Isaiah vi, 1: "If the righteous scarcely saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner be?" This was Mr. Potter's last evening at the camp, and the large audience that listened to him will long remember his remarks. After the altar service he stated that the meetings had been the best ever attended by him. The programme for to-day has not been definitely arranged, but the Revs. Campbell and Morgan will conduct the earlier exercises of the morning. The Rev. Dr. Creighton will preach at 11 a. m. and at 2 p. m. The success of the meetings has spoiled previous arrangements, and no programmes for the next few days can be fully announced. Dr. Keen, however, says that all may expect interesting services, and a tide of salvation from now until next Thursday.

Notes from the Camp.

Dr. and Mrs. S. L. Bowman, of Greencastle, were on the grounds yesterday.

The Rev. Dr. Creighton arrived in the afternoon, and will take part in the services to-day.

D. W. Potter and E. F. Miller left last night for Fremont, Neb. Their stay here has materially assisted in the success of the meetings.

Considerable anxiety is felt just now by the members of Roberts Park Church. It is said that Dr. Keen has received from a neighboring city an offer of a better position than he now holds. When the question was suggested to members of the church, some scouted the idea of the Doctor's leaving the church, but others advised that a call had been received. Dr. Keen, however, that every influence would be brought to bear to retain the Doctor.

THE COLORED BAPTISTS.

A Very Prosperous Organization in Which Their Interests Are Promoted.

The Eastern Indiana Baptist Association (colored) began its annual session at the New Bethel Church, on Beeler street, yesterday. The association takes in twenty-three churches, scattered over the eastern half of the State, with here and there one in the western half. Two churches have just been received into the organization—one at Evansville and the other in Vigo county. The churches in this city belonging to it are the Corinthian Chapel, New Bethel and North Indianapolis. The sessions are presided over by Dr. S. S. Slaughter, of Indianapolis, as moderator, and Rev. M. Bassett, of New Albany, is the secretary. The other pastors in attendance are: G. J. Wian, of Craycroft; R. Bassett, F. P. Green and G. D. Smith, Shelbyville; N. L. Bray and E. Boyer, Muncie; E. Howard, New Albany; W. B. Arnold, Bloomington; W. B. Anderson, Evansville; M. C. Anderson, Lost Creek; E. H. Fletcher, Lafayette.

Rev. N. Seymour, pastor of New Bethel, was the attraction yesterday. He responded, Rev. Miles Bassett, of New Albany, responded. Mr. Bassett spoke of the growth of the association from 61 members, when it was organized by Franklin in 1856, to 1,491 at the meeting at Muncie last year. The growth since then, with other statistical matter, will be given at the meeting to-day, which will close the conference. The question of electing Superintendent Baker's successor was not touched upon, and it is not probable that a choice will be made. A resolution was reported that since he has been in control of the institution $854.35 has been spent in repairs on the building, and it is suggested that he be assumed the management of the grounds and buildings were in poor condition, which he has tried to remedy, so far as it lay, by the erection of a new building, the bath-rooms in the building, as a necessity to the health of the pupils, was among the improvements recommended.

Institution of the Deaf and Dumb.

The trustees of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb held a meeting yesterday. All of the teachers in the institution last year were re-elected, with the exception of Mr. Burke, who resigned his position. The only addition to the corps of teachers for the coming year was Miss Lucy E. Robinson, of this city, who will instruct classes in articulation. Miss Robinson's education in this line, acquired under Prof. A. Graham Bell, in Boston, was confined to a close study of his visible speech theory. The question of electing Superintendent Baker's successor was not touched upon, and it is not probable that a choice will be made. A resolution was reported that since he has been in control of the institution $854.35 has been spent in repairs on the building, and it is suggested that he be assumed the management of the grounds and buildings were in poor condition, which he has tried to remedy, so far as it lay, by the erection of a new building, the bath-rooms in the building, as a necessity to the health of the pupils, was among the improvements recommended.

The Vicksburg Veterans.

The Vicksburg Veteran Association will take part in the ceremonies attending the laying of the corner-stone of the soldiers' monument. Its headquarters will be at No. 22 South Meridian street, and this society, showing its beautiful and unique badge—the magnolia blossom—will remind one of the part Indiana took in the great struggle along the banks of that river from Island No. 10 to its mouth, and it can be said without disparagement to others that their fighting was heroic and effective in the capture of Vicksburg. The unequal contest against the Mississippi river was waged by Indiana soldiers and their comrades of the West at a time when the North was in gloom. It was their victory that relieved the Nation's despair and restored its hope.

A Welcome for the President.

The Board of Trade is leading in a movement to welcome President Harrison on his visit here the 22d. To bring the citizens together in making arrangements for this purpose the following was prepared yesterday: To the Public.

It is generally understood that the President of the United States will visit the city on August 22, when the corner-stone of the soldiers' monument is to be laid. It is fitting that he be received with all the honor and enthusiasm possible, and that the occasion of his visit be made memorable. Therefore, a public meeting of citizens is called by the Board of Trade, room 11, at 8 o'clock, noon, Friday, Aug. 9, to arrange for the event.

President Indianapolis Board of Trade.

To Meet Professor Barus.

The gentlemen who willing in the chorus on the occasion of laying the corner-stone of the soldiers' monument are requested to meet with Professor Carl Barus on next Monday evening, at 8 o'clock, in High-school Hall.

Essential to the Ceremony.

Hildebrand & Fugate have donated a mallet, plumb, level and square, to be used in laying the corner-stone of the soldiers' monument.

SUNDAY TRAINS IN GOD'S SERVICE.

Dr. Keen Objects to Them, but the Trustees of Camp Acton Would Like to Make a Change.

Last April, when Dr. S. A. Keen and the trustees of Camp Acton were considering the matter of holding meetings for the season, the question of Sunday trains arose. Dr. Keen, being decidedly against them, insisted that they should not be run to the camp so long as he had anything to do with it. Afterwards, when the Murphy gathering was talked about, the Sunday train feature again came up, and Dr. Keen again objected. Mr. Murphy went ahead and made a contract with the trustees, with the understanding that there should be no such trains. Since that time he has gone about the State a great deal, and visited camp-meetings where they were run, and his observation led him to the conclusion that without them he would utterly fail to reach the very class of people to whom his work is addressed. In the meantime he has been talking with the trustees of Camp Acton, and a majority of them, seeing the matter as he does, and desiring to aid in the accomplishment of as much good as possible, are in favor of having Sunday trains bring the people to the camp-meeting. Last night the trustees were to have had a meeting to take final action. There was such a meeting, but the talk was informal, and no decisive action was taken. In this event there is a possibility that Mr. Murphy will withdraw from the Acton programme, as his time, engaged in a great work, is too valuable to be wasted. The trustees feel that the agreement with Dr. Keen must be carried out, but there will be another conference between them and Mr. Murphy, and an arrangement may be concluded. Mr. Murphy regrets the situation of affairs, as he thinks Sunday trains are essential to the success of his meetings. His mission is not to the good people who can go to Camp Acton and stay the week through, but to work-day sinners, who can only have Sunday out.

New Incorporations.

The first named is to manufacture building presses, and has $500 capital stock. Thomas N. Bryan is the president, David C. Bryan the secretary, and Louis E. Hasting treasurer. The capital stock of the Edinburg company is $40,000, and the directors are E. E. Evans and Joel C. Pennington and Richard Butler.
